STEPHEN SCOGLIO:

From the classroom to the world stage...

That's where Stephen Scoglio's Swinburne degree has taken him.

NAT SOT – YOUTUBE GAME AWARDS

while studying a Bachelor of Arts in games and interactivity at Swinburne.

Stephen won an international award for a project developed at the university.

00:06:56:14 - 00:07:17:09
Speaker 1
When I won the award and was on stage, I said that Swinburne was the best place in Australia to learn how to make games.

Since finishing, Stephen now leads a team of game makers as the lead designer at a studio based here in Melbourne.

PTC: Stephen says everything he learned here at Swinburne forms the basis of what he does everyday as a lead designer at a gaming studio

00:05:59:00 - 00:06:12:00
Speaker 1
I my degree informs everything I do at work. It was the basis of the building blocks. You learn a lot on the job, but without those sort of building blocks to start you off, I think you'd be a bit behind the eight ball.

It's his piece of paper, that has allowed him to make his childhood obsession of gaming into a career.

00:10:16:08 - 00:10:23:04
Speaker 1
… Sometimes you have to pinch myself as to believe that I'm doing what I'm doing.